Overview

Clients and colleagues call Barry Barnett an “incredibly gifted lawyer” (Chambers and Partners) who is “magic in the courtroom” (Who’s Who Legal), “the top antitrust lawyer in Texas” (Chambers and Partners), and “a person of unquestioned integrity” (David J. Beck, founder of Beck Redden).

Barnett is a Fellow in the American College of Trial Lawyers, and Lawdragon has named him one of the top 500 lawyers in the United States three years in a row. Best Lawyers in America has honored him as “Lawyer of the Year” for Bet-the-Company Litigation (2019 and 2017) and Patent Litigation (2020) in Houston. Based in Texas and New York, Barnett has tried complex business disputes across the United States.

TRIAL COUNSEL

Barnett’s background, training, and experience make him indispensable to his clients. The small-town son of a Texas roughneck and grandson of a Texas sharecropper, Barnett “developed an unusual common sense about people, their motivations, and their dilemmas,” according to former client Michael Lewis.

Barnett has been historically recognized for his effectiveness and judgment. His peers chose him, for example, to the American College of Trial Lawyers and American Law Institute. His decades of trial and appellate work representing both plaintiffs and defendants have made him a master strategist and nimble tactician in complex disputes.

Barnett focuses on enforcement of antitrust laws, the “Magna Carta of free enterprise,” in Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall’s memorable phrase. “Barry is one of the nation’s outstanding antitrust lawyers,” according to Joseph Goldberg, a member of the Private Antitrust Enforcement Hall of Fame. Named among Texas’s top ten antitrust lawyers of 2023, Business

Today calls Barnett a “trailblazer” among the “distinguished legal minds” who “dedicate their skill and expertise to the maintenance of healthy competition in various sectors” of the Lone Star State’s booming economy. Barnett is also adept in energy and intellectual property matters and has battled for clients against a Who’s Who list of corporate behemoths, including Abbott Labs, Alcoa, Apple, AT&T, BlackBerry, Broadcom, Comcast, Dow, JPMorgan Chase, Samsung, and Visa.

Barnett commands a courtroom with calm and credibility and “is the perfect lawyer for bet the company litigation,” said Scott Regan, General Counsel of former client Whiting Petroleum. His performance before the Supreme Court in Comcast Corp. v. Behrend prompted the Court to withdraw the question on which it had granted review. The judge in a trial involving mobile phone technology called Barnett “one of the best” and that his opening statement the finest he had ever seen. Another trial judge told Barnett minutes after a jury returned a favorable verdict against the county’s biggest employer that he was one of the two best trial lawyers he’d ever come across—adding that the other one was dead.

“Barry is an outstanding lawyer. Extremely practical, creative, and brilliant when it comes to strategic legal questions. My advice would be to retain him, even if just to make sure he is not in a case on the other side of you.”

John Monsky, General Counsel, Oak Hill Capital

“Barry is deeply involved in the matters that he takes on and doesn’t over-lawyer. He does a nice job of explaining things to non-lawyers, which is important in any legal matter and especially in high-stakes litigation. He is wickedly smart too.”

Client Quote from Chambers USA 2023 Rankings

“Great manner—substantively intense, but friendly and relaxed presentation. Great practical knowledge. Knows what to do to win.”

David Sorkin, General Counsel, KKR & Co. Inc.

“Barry Barnett was magnificent in trying this case,” said his client’s General Counsel after Barnett led a trial team that defeated $500 million claims relating to power plants, a lignite mine, and an aluminum smelter. “We couldn’t ask for more able trial counsel.”

“Barry’s a brilliant fellow. He thinks deeply about issues. When he advocates for a position, he does so in a powerfully persuasive and articulate manner, but he’s always respectful of those who might hold different views. He’s a wonderful colleague.”

John Eichman, The Eichman Firm

“Barry is a man of incredible integrity, knowledge, and character. Extraordinarily talented as a lawyer, he is both strategically thoughtful and candid in his feedback. He not only provides great advice, he prepares you to make intelligent decisions. I highly recommend Barry to anyone in need of his services.”

Juan Sabater, President, Valor Equity Partners

“He’s a very good man; an honorable individual who cares deeply about his family and friends. I trust Barry completely. He’s truly someone I admire deeply and enjoy a lot.”

Jeffrey Chapman, Gibson Dunn & Crutcher LLP

COMPLETE PACKAGE

A versatile trial lawyer, Barnett knows how to handle a case all the way from strategic pre-suit planning to affirmance on appeal. He’s tried cases to verdict and then briefed and argued them when they went before appellate courts, including the Second, Third, Fifth, and Tenth Circuits, the Supreme Court of Louisiana, and (in the case of Comcast Corp. v. Behrend) the Supreme Court of the United States.

Barnett is a sought-after public speaker, often serving on panels and talking about topics like the trials of antitrust class actions and techniques for streamlining complex litigation. He also comments on trends in commercial litigation and the implications of major rulings for outlets such as NPR, Reuters, Law360, Corporate Counsel, and The Dallas Morning News. He’s even appeared in a Frontline program about underfunding of state pensions, authored chapters on “Fee Arrangements” and “Techniques for Expediting and Streamlining Litigation” (the latter with Steve Susman) in the ABA’s definitive treatise on Business and Commercial Litigation in Federal Courts, 5th, and commented on How Antitrust Enforcers Might Think Like Plaintiffs’ Lawyers.

HARD GRADERS

Clients and other hard graders have praised Barnett for his courtroom skills and legal acumen.

A client in a $100 million oil and gas case, which Barnett's team won at trial and held on appeal, said Barnett and his team "presented a rare combination of strong legal intellect, common sense about right and wrong, and credibility in the courtroom." David McCombs at Haynes and Boone said Barnett "has a natural presence that goes over well with juries and judges."

Even former adversaries give Barnett high marks. Lead opposing counsel in a decade-long antitrust slugfest said "Barry is a highly skilled advocate. He understands what really matters in telling a narrative and does so in a very compelling manner."

CIVIC ENGAGEMENT

Barnett relishes opportunities to collaborate with all kinds of people. At the Center for American and International Law \(CAIL\), founded by a former prosecutor at Nuremberg in 1947 and headquartered in the Dallas area, he has served on the Executive Committee, co-chaired the committee that produced CAIL's first-ever strategic plan, supported CAIL's Institute for Law Enforcement Administration and other development efforts, and proposed formation of a new Institute for Social Justice Law. CAIL's former President David Beck said "Barry is extremely bright" and is "very well prepared in every lawsuit or professional task he undertakes."

Barnett is also a Trustee of the New-York Historical Society, a Sterling Fellow at Yale, a member of the Yale University Art Gallery's Governing Board, a winner of the Class Award for his work on behalf of his college class, and a proud contributor to the Yellow Ribbon Program at Harvard Law. Barnett's pro bono work includes leading the trial team representing people who are at greatest risk of severe illness and death as a result of being exposed to the novel coronavirus SARS-CoV-2 while being detained in the Dallas County jail—work for which he received the NGAN Legal Advocacy Fund RBG Award.

At Susman Godfrey, Barnett has served on the firm's Executive Committee, Employment Committee, and ad hoc committees on partner compensation, succession of leadership, and revision of the firm's partnership agreement. He also twice chaired the Practice Development Committee.

KEEPING PERSPECTIVE

Barnett understands that clients face many pressures. Managing the stress is important, especially in matters that take years to resolve. He encourages clients to call him whenever they have a question or concern and to keep the inevitable ups and downs in perspective. He wants them to know that he will do his level best to help them achieve their goals. He also strives to foster trust and to make working with him a pleasure.

Cyrus "Skip" Marter, the General Counsel of Bonanza Creek in Denver and a former Susman Godfrey partner and client, said Barnett is "excellent about communicating with clients in a full and honest manner" and can "negotiate for his clients from a position of strength, because he is not afraid to take a case through a full trial on the merits.” Stacey Doré, the President of Hunt Utility Services and a former client, said that Barnett is “an excellent trial lawyer and the person you want to hire for your bet-the-company cases. He is client focused, responsive, and uniquely savvy about trial and settlement strategy.” A New York colleague said, “Barry is a joy to work with as co-counsel. He tackles complex procedural and factual hurdles capably, efficiently, and without drama.”
